Card for Your Pet

- Children enjoy creating art and other gifts for those they care about. Tell your child that it would be nice to make art to show the family pet how much they love them.
- Cut out a piece of paper in the shape of a heart and let your child decorate the heart how they wish. You can use non-toxic paint, markers, stamps, stickers, or other child-friendly art materials.

Braided Rope Dog Toy

Materials: fleece or old t-shirts, scissors, safety pin or rubber band

- If your family has a dog (and your child has succeeded in learning how to tie their shoes), it might be fun to try making a braided rope dog toy!
- You can follow this tutorial for a DIY Braided Rope Dog Toy.
- You will need to cut fleece or old t-shirts into strips and secure the ends with a safety pin or rubber band and tie a knot.
- Demonstrate to your child how to braid the rope. While your child practices, hold the other end of the rope.
- Once finished, tie it off and let your child give the toy to the dog to play!

Feather Cat Toy

Materials: string, scissors, craft feathers, wooden stick, glue, tape

- If your family has a cat, there are plenty of ideas for a DIY Feather Cat Toy.
- Let your child pick out feathers and practice tying them together with string. If your child needs help, they can glue or tape the feathers at the ends first before tying them together.
- Hang the bundled feathers from a wooden stick or string.
- Once finished, let your child play with the cat using their new toy!

Bird Enrichment

Materials: paper, scissors

- There are a multitude of different toys you can create for pet birds using everyday household items.
- One easy type of bird enrichment is shredded paper. Your toddler can easily shred pieces of paper that can either hang around your bird's cage, be stuffed into a toilet paper tube with some food so your bird can practice foraging, or even strung together into fun shapes.

Compare & Contrast: People Needs and Pet Needs

Materials: two containers, objects representing people and pet needs

- Gather two containers and label one "People" and the other one "Pets" with photos or pictures to match.
- Gather items representing different needs. For pet needs, you can have a pet toy, pet food, and a water bowl. For people needs, you can have a child's toy, a human food item, and a bottle of water.
- Challenge your child to put each item in the appropriate container. For example, "Can you put the food items in the right container?"
- Ask follow-up questions after your child has sorted through the items, such as, "What was different between the two toys?" or, "Why did the people and pet container both have food?"
